Yes, instruments of financial assurance associated with 1994 ACO and CSO Order are no longer necessary. We wrote a Jan 2017 letter allowing termination of CSO Order financial assurance – let me know if you need it.

Subject: quick question

Hi Alice,

Seems pretty straight forward, but I was asked to verify that the any instruments of financial assurance that would have been necessary for the 1994 ACO and then the successor CSO Order are no longer necessary ($2mm). This seems consistent with the “no further obligations” language in the termination of each, do you agree? No tricks here, I think folks just want extra level of certainty we are clear on the administrative obligations.

Thanks!

Juan
